

Interview a Special Grown-up

A GENERATIONS DAY ACTIVITY

Asking someone questions is a good way to learn about them -- and to see how you are similar or different! When we ask someone lots of questions about themselves and listen carefully to their answers, it's called an interview.

- 1 With the help of a parent, choose a grown-up to interview over videochat or on the phone
- 2 Think of some fun questions to ask (there some ideas below)
- 3 Make a memory of the interview: you can draw a picture, record the interview, or make-up a story.
- 4 Share what you learned with the grown-up you interviewed. Don't forget to share it with Pike, too: advancement@pikeschool.org

SAMPLE QUESTIONS

Would you rather be able to breathe underwater like a fish or fly like a bird?

If you could only have one food to eat every day, what would it be?

If you could be an animal, what animal would it be?

What would be fun about being that animal?

Would you rather play in the sand or play in the snow?

What's your favorite color? What things are that color?

What do you do when you're feeling sad?

What do you like best about yourself?

What did you like best about school when you were my age?

What was your favorite toy or game when you were a child?

What is your favorite thing to do?